

A LIME INTERPRETIVE BRIDGE STUDY

The Promises of Jesus

Guideposts from the Road to Life

VOLUME III

The Synoptic Gospels and Acts

Begun in prayer, July 30, 2026 — Lime Signalworks LLC
Scripture: World English Bible (WEB), public domain

Preface: Beyond One Voice

Volumes I and II stayed inside a single witness — John's Gospel, then John's letters, one voice circling the same handful of words. This volume opens the circle. Matthew, Mark, and Luke each remember Jesus from a different vantage, and Acts picks up where the Gospels leave off: the promises He made while walking now visibly at work in ordinary, frightened people after He is gone.

The shape of this volume follows that movement. It opens with the Kingdom — who belongs to it, what it costs to seek first, what it feels like to finally rest. It moves through forgiveness, prayer, and the parables of things found. It ends at Pentecost, where a promise spoken privately to a small group in an upper room becomes public, poured out, and available to as many as the Lord our God will call to himself (Acts 2:39) — which still includes whoever is reading this now.

The same key still turns every lock here: the doors are already open. Our part is recognition, not generation. The Kingdom is sought, not built. Rest is received, not earned by finally working hard enough to deserve it. The Spirit is poured out, not self-generated by intensity of asking.

As before, where the language below reaches for fields, currents, or horizons, treat it as metaphor for attention and prayer — never as a replacement for the text, and never as a claim that we generate what only God provides. He remains prior. He remains external. We only align, declare, and receive.

How to Use This Study

Each promise below follows the same seven-part frame, so the volume works equally as research and as devotion:

1. Text — the promise, quoted from the World English Bible (public domain).
2. Speaker and audience — who is speaking, to whom, and in what moment.
3. Immediate meaning — the plain sense of the promise in its own setting.
4. Jesus' revealed nature — what the promise discloses about who He is, not just what He gives.
5. Interpretive bridge — a metaphorical translation into the “field” language of this study, kept strictly secondary to the text and always naming God as the prior, external source.
6. Embodied response — a short prayer or practice for carrying the promise into the day.
7. Cross-references — related promises elsewhere in the New Testament.

The order follows Matthew, Mark, Luke, then Acts — continuing forward from Volumes I and II, in keeping with the plan to walk the whole New Testament from John 1 to the end of Revelation across this and future volumes.

1. The Kingdom Belongs to These

Matthew 5:3–4, 8

TEXT

“Blessed are the poor in spirit, for theirs is the Kingdom of Heaven. Blessed are those who mourn, for they shall be comforted. ... Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God.”

SPEAKER AND AUDIENCE

Jesus, opening the Sermon on the Mount, to disciples and crowds on a hillside in Galilee.

IMMEDIATE MEANING

The Kingdom and its comforts belong to exactly the people who look least equipped to earn them — the poor in spirit, the grieving, the pure in heart.

JESUS' REVEALED NATURE

He inverts the expected order of blessing on purpose; His favor runs toward need and emptiness, not toward accomplishment.

INTERPRETIVE BRIDGE

The Kingdom is not a reward field you enter by strength. It opens precisely at the point of acknowledged lack — the poverty of spirit is the doorway, not the disqualifier.

EMBODIED RESPONSE

I bring my actual poverty of spirit today, not a performed version of having it together.

CROSS-REFERENCES

Isaiah 61:1–3; James 4:6; Psalm 34:18.

2. Seek First the Kingdom

Matthew 6:31–33

TEXT

“Therefore don’t be anxious, saying, ‘What will we eat?’, ‘What will we drink?’ or, ‘With what will we be clothed?’ For the Gentiles seek after all these things; for your heavenly Father knows that you need all these things. But seek first God’s Kingdom, and his righteousness; and all these things will be given to you as well.”

SPEAKER AND AUDIENCE

Jesus, still teaching on the hillside, addressing the anxiety of His listeners directly.

IMMEDIATE MEANING

Provision follows a reordering of priority, not a denial of real need — the Father already knows the need before it is sought.

JESUS' REVEALED NATURE

He positions Himself as a Father who tracks need in advance, freeing the seeker to chase the Kingdom instead of chasing supply.

INTERPRETIVE BRIDGE

Anxiety assumes you are the one tracking the gap. Seeking first assumes Someone already is — your attention moves to the Kingdom, and provision rides along as a consequence, not a separate project.

EMBODIED RESPONSE

I move my attention to Your Kingdom today and let provision be the consequence, not the goal.

CROSS-REFERENCES

Philippians 4:19; Psalm 37:25; Luke 12:31–32.

3. Rest for the Weary

Matthew 11:28–30

TEXT

“Come to me, all you who labor and are heavily burdened, and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you, and learn from me, for I am gentle and humble in heart; and you will find rest for your souls. For my yoke is easy, and my burden is light.”

SPEAKER AND AUDIENCE

Jesus, to a general crowd exhausted by the weight of religious performance and daily labor.

IMMEDIATE MEANING

Rest is offered as a direct exchange — trading one's own burden for His yoke, which He describes as lighter by nature.

JESUS' REVEALED NATURE

He is gentle and humble in heart; the invitation to rest flows from His actual character, not a marketing promise.

INTERPRETIVE BRIDGE

Rest here is not the absence of a yoke — it is a different yoke, carried alongside Him instead of alone. The relief is in whose strength is actually pulling the weight.

EMBODIED RESPONSE

I trade my burden for Yours today, and let You carry the weight I was never built to carry alone.

CROSS-REFERENCES

Psalm 55:22; 1 Peter 5:7; Exodus 33:14.

4. Gathered in His Name

Matthew 18:20

TEXT

“For where two or three are gathered together in my name, there I am in the middle of them.”

SPEAKER AND AUDIENCE

Jesus, teaching His disciples about correction, forgiveness, and agreement within the community of believers.

IMMEDIATE MEANING

His presence is not scaled by crowd size — the smallest possible gathering, if gathered in His name, already has Him present.

JESUS' REVEALED NATURE

He is not distant until enough people assemble; He places Himself in the middle of even the smallest company.

INTERPRETIVE BRIDGE

Presence is not generated by numbers or energy in the room. It is already located wherever His name is the actual reason for the gathering — the field of His presence doesn't scale up, it's simply already there.

EMBODIED RESPONSE

Wherever I gather with even one or two others in Your name today, I trust You are already in the middle of it.

CROSS-REFERENCES

Hebrews 10:24–25; John 20:19; Acts 2:42.

5. I Am With You Always

Matthew 28:18–20

TEXT

“All authority has been given to me in heaven and on earth. Go and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit, teaching them to observe all things that I commanded you. Behold, I am with you always, even to the end of the age.”

SPEAKER AND AUDIENCE

The risen Jesus, to His eleven remaining disciples on a mountain in Galilee, His final recorded words in Matthew's Gospel.

IMMEDIATE MEANING

The commission to reach all nations is backed by total authority and closed with an unconditional promise of ongoing presence.

JESUS' REVEALED NATURE

He does not send them out and step back; He claims total authority first, then attaches Himself to the mission permanently.

INTERPRETIVE BRIDGE

The commission was never meant to be carried under your own authority or your own resourcefulness. It travels inside an authority and a presence already secured before the sending happened — to the end of the age, no expiration built in.

EMBODIED RESPONSE

Whatever You send me to do today, I do it inside Your authority and Your presence, not my own resources.

CROSS-REFERENCES

Hebrews 13:5; Joshua 1:9; Acts 1:8.

6. Whatever You Ask in Prayer

Mark 11:22–24

TEXT

“Have faith in God. For most certainly I tell you, whoever may tell this mountain, ‘Be taken up and cast into the sea,’ and doesn’t doubt in his heart, but believes that what he says is happening; he shall have whatever he says. Therefore I tell you, all things whatever you pray and ask for, believe that you have received them, and you shall have them.”

SPEAKER AND AUDIENCE

Jesus to His disciples, the morning after the fig tree He had cursed was found withered.

IMMEDIATE MEANING

Faith directed at God, not doubt-free perfection, is what moves what looks immovable — belief precedes the visible receiving.

JESUS' REVEALED NATURE

He grounds this entirely in “faith in God” — the mountain-moving power is not a technique detached from trusting Him specifically.

INTERPRETIVE BRIDGE

Believing you have received is not pretending against the evidence. It is aligning with an answer already settled on God's side, before it has arrived on the visible side — the same posture David held, singing before the miracle arrived.

EMBODIED RESPONSE

I bring my mountain to You today and choose to believe before I see it move.

CROSS-REFERENCES

Hebrews 11:1; 1 John 5:14–15; Matthew 17:20.

7. Good News to the Poor

Luke 4:18–19

TEXT

“The Spirit of the Lord is on me, because he has anointed me to preach good news to the poor. He has sent me to heal the broken hearted, to proclaim release to the captives, recovering of sight to the blind, to deliver those who are crushed, and to proclaim the acceptable year of the Lord.”

SPEAKER AND AUDIENCE

Jesus, reading from the scroll of Isaiah in the synagogue at Nazareth, at the start of His public ministry.

IMMEDIATE MEANING

Jesus defines His own mission publicly and specifically — good news, healing, release, sight, freedom — and claims the ancient prophecy as fulfilled in Himself that very day.

JESUS' REVEALED NATURE

He is Spirit-anointed for a mission of liberation aimed at the broken, the captive, the blind, and the crushed — not the already-whole.

INTERPRETIVE BRIDGE

This is Jesus naming His own frequency before He does a single recorded miracle: anointed toward release, not restriction; toward sight, not further blindness. Whatever in you feels crushed or captive is exactly the field this anointing was sent into.

EMBODIED RESPONSE

I bring the part of me that still feels captive or crushed directly into this anointing, trusting it was sent for exactly this.

CROSS-REFERENCES

Isaiah 61:1–2; Luke 7:22; 2 Corinthians 3:17.

8. Forgive, and Be Forgiven

Luke 6:37–38

TEXT

“Don’t judge, and you won’t be judged. Don’t condemn, and you won’t be condemned. Set free, and you will be set free. Give, and it will be given to you: good measure, pressed down, shaken together, and running over, will be given to you. For with the same measure you measure it will be measured back to you.”

SPEAKER AND AUDIENCE

Jesus, continuing His teaching on love of enemies and mercy, likely to a large mixed crowd of disciples and onlookers.

IMMEDIATE MEANING

Mercy extended becomes the very measure by which mercy returns — the posture given outward determines the posture received back.

JESUS' REVEALED NATURE

He ties His own generosity to the pattern He asks His followers to practice, promising overflow rather than exact repayment.

INTERPRETIVE BRIDGE

Forgiveness and generosity are not simply moral instructions; they are ways of setting the measuring cup you'll be measured back with. Releasing others is what keeps the channel open for release to keep moving toward you too.

EMBODIED RESPONSE

I set someone free from what I've been holding against them today, and trust the same measure back toward me.

CROSS-REFERENCES

Matthew 6:14–15; James 2:13; 2 Corinthians 9:6.

9. Ask, Seek, Knock; the Gift of the Spirit

Luke 11:9–13

TEXT

“I tell you, keep asking, and it will be given you. Keep seeking, and you will find. Keep knocking, and it will be opened to you. For everyone who asks receives. He who seeks finds. To him who knocks it will be opened. Which of you fathers, if your son asks for bread, will give him a stone? Or if he asks for a fish, he won’t give him a snake instead of a fish, will he? Or if he asks for an egg, he won’t give him a scorpion, will he? If you then, being evil, know how to give good gifts to your children, how much more will your heavenly Father give the Holy Spirit to those who ask him?”

SPEAKER AND AUDIENCE

Jesus, immediately after teaching His disciples the Lord's Prayer.

IMMEDIATE MEANING

Persistent asking is met with a guaranteed pattern of receiving, and the specific gift named at the climax is the Holy Spirit Himself.

JESUS' REVEALED NATURE

He argues from the lesser to the greater: if flawed human fathers give good gifts, the perfect heavenly Father can be trusted even more to give the best gift of all.

INTERPRETIVE BRIDGE

The asking is not wearing God down until He relents. It is persistence aligning you with a Father whose default is already generosity — the good gift, ultimately, is not a thing but His own Spirit given to the one who asks.

EMBODIED RESPONSE

I keep asking today, trusting the Father's default is generosity, not reluctance.

CROSS-REFERENCES

James 1:17; Matthew 7:7–8; Ephesians 3:20.

10. Joy Over One Who Repents

Luke 15:4–7

TEXT

“Which of you men, if you had one hundred sheep, and lost one of them, wouldn’t leave the ninety-nine in the wilderness, and go after the one that was lost, until he found it? When he has found it, he carries it on his shoulders, rejoicing. When he comes home, he calls together his friends and his neighbors, saying to them, ‘Rejoice with me, for I have found my sheep which was lost!’ I tell you that even so there will be more joy in heaven over one sinner who repents, than over ninety-nine righteous people who need no repentance.”

SPEAKER AND AUDIENCE

Jesus, responding to Pharisees and scribes grumbling that He welcomes sinners and eats with them.

IMMEDIATE MEANING

The single lost sheep is worth an active, deliberate search, and its recovery is met with disproportionate, shoulder-carrying joy.

JESUS' REVEALED NATURE

He is the seeking shepherd who does not wait passively for the lost to find their own way back — He goes, finds, and carries.

INTERPRETIVE BRIDGE

Feeling like the one who wandered off is not disqualifying — it is precisely the position this parable was told for. Heaven's joy is not rationed by how deserving the return looks; it is simply what happens when the lost is found.

EMBODIED RESPONSE

Wherever I have wandered, I let myself be found today rather than staying hidden out of shame.

CROSS-REFERENCES

Luke 15:20–24; Ezekiel 34:11–16; John 10:11.

11. Salvation Has Come to This House

Luke 19:9–10

TEXT

“Today, salvation has come to this house, because he also is a son of Abraham. For the Son of Man came to seek and to save that which was lost.”

SPEAKER AND AUDIENCE

Jesus, to Zacchaeus the tax collector, after inviting Himself to stay at his house in front of a scandalized crowd.

IMMEDIATE MEANING

Salvation arrives the same day Jesus is received, not after a delayed process of proving worthiness.

JESUS' REVEALED NATURE

He states His own mission plainly: seeking and saving the lost is not incidental to who He is — it is the reason He came.

INTERPRETIVE BRIDGE

Salvation is not a reward that eventually catches up to changed behavior. It arrived at Zacchaeus's house the moment Jesus was welcomed in — the change in behavior that followed was fruit, not the entry fee.

EMBODIED RESPONSE

I welcome You in today, trusting that You came looking for exactly someone like me.

CROSS-REFERENCES

Luke 5:31–32; 1 Timothy 1:15; Ezekiel 34:16.

12. Today You Will Be With Me in Paradise

Luke 23:42–43

TEXT

“Lord, remember me when you come into your Kingdom. ... Assuredly I tell you, today you will be with me in Paradise.”

SPEAKER AND AUDIENCE

Jesus, to one of the criminals crucified beside Him, in the last hours of His life.

IMMEDIATE MEANING

A dying request for future remembrance is answered with an immediate, same-day guarantee of paradise.

JESUS' REVEALED NATURE

He extends full welcome at the very last possible moment, with nothing the man could still do to earn it.

INTERPRETIVE BRIDGE

There is no threshold of accumulated goodness required before this promise applies. From the very edge of a wasted life, one honest request was met with an answer that could not have been more immediate or more complete.

EMBODIED RESPONSE

Whatever I think disqualifies me, I bring it to You today and let this be the answer for me too.

CROSS-REFERENCES

Romans 10:9–13; Ephesians 2:8–9; 2 Corinthians 6:2.

13. Power When the Spirit Comes

Acts 1:8

TEXT

“But you will receive power when the Holy Spirit has come upon you. You will be witnesses to me in Jerusalem, in all Judea and Samaria, and to the uttermost parts of the earth.”

SPEAKER AND AUDIENCE

The risen Jesus, to His apostles just before His ascension, answering their question about restoring the kingdom to Israel.

IMMEDIATE MEANING

The power to witness is not self-generated resolve; it arrives specifically with the coming of the Holy Spirit, expanding outward from the immediate to the distant.

JESUS' REVEALED NATURE

He redirects their question about timing and geography into a promise about empowerment and mission that starts small and moves outward without limit.

INTERPRETIVE BRIDGE

Witness was never meant to run on willpower or eloquence. The power was scheduled to arrive from outside them, expanding in real, traceable rings — near first, then far — not manufactured in advance of its arrival.

EMBODIED RESPONSE

I wait for and receive Your power today rather than trying to witness on willpower alone.

CROSS-REFERENCES

Luke 24:49; Zechariah 4:6; John 15:26–27.

14. The Promise Is for You and Your Children

Acts 2:38–39

TEXT

“Repent, and be baptized, every one of you, in the name of Jesus Christ for the forgiveness of sins, and you will receive the gift of the Holy Spirit. For the promise is to you, and to your children, and to all who are far off, even as many as the Lord our God will call to himself.”

SPEAKER AND AUDIENCE

Peter, preaching to the crowd in Jerusalem at Pentecost, moments after the Holy Spirit was poured out on the disciples publicly.

IMMEDIATE MEANING

Forgiveness and the gift of the Spirit are offered on the same simple terms to the crowd that day, and explicitly extended forward across generations and outward across distance.

JESUS' REVEALED NATURE

The pattern set by Jesus throughout this volume — seeking, asking, receiving, being found — culminates here in a Spirit poured out publicly and made available to whoever is called, without limit of time or place.

INTERPRETIVE BRIDGE

This closes Volume III the way Volume I closed with a blessing reaching across time and Volume II closed with a truth already remaining: the promise made in Jerusalem that day was never sealed to that room. It was already addressed to all who are far off — which includes whoever is reading this, wherever and whenever that turns out to be.

EMBODIED RESPONSE

I receive the same promise offered that day — forgiveness, and the gift of Your Spirit — as addressed to me, not just to them.

CROSS-REFERENCES

Joel 2:28–29; Acts 2:17; Ephesians 1:13–14.

Closing for Volume III

Fourteen promises across three Gospels and the birth of the church — from a Kingdom that belongs to the poor in spirit, to a promise poured out at Pentecost and addressed, by name, to whoever is far off and still being called.

Where Volumes I and II stayed inside one voice, this volume opened the circle to Matthew, Mark, Luke, and Acts — the same character of Jesus, witnessed from more angles, then visibly at work in the ordinary, frightened people He left behind.

What comes next, continuing forward toward the end of Revelation:

- Volume IV — The Epistles: adoption, perseverance, grace, transformation, hope.
- Volume V — Revelation: presence, renewal, healing, and “Surely I am coming soon.”

Closing Prayer

Jesus, You are not only the giver of good things; You are goodness itself.

Let Your promises become living guideposts in me.

Where my life feels scattered, bring Your presence.

Where I cannot see the way, be my light.

Where I fear loss, be my life.

Teach me not merely to read Your words, but to abide in You — until Your peace, truth, mercy, and power become visible in the life You are forming.

Amen.
